As Much as 70% of Self-Reporting on Licensing Contracts is Inaccurate

Licensees often misreport usage, not because they are trying to get away with something, but because they also lack visibility into contract terms and struggle to decipher complex usage specifications.

Difficulty understanding timing, terms and rates can lead to underpayment, or deliberate overpayment to avoid fines.

Regardless, licensors must reconcile inexact payments through contract reviews and payment audits, which can be time consuming and error-prone.

The Licensing Industry Merchandisers' Association (LIMA) estimates that more than one billion dollars in inbound royalties are lost every year due to poor licensing royalty management.
